JAPANESE CABINET QUILTS

Suggests Shipstead as Roosevelt Mate

ROOSEVELT FORCES MARSHAL POWER TO PUSH NOMINATION

ALSO INDICATE PREFERENCE OF KANSAS CITY TO CHICAGO FOR CONVENTION

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—A farmer-labor presidential ticket with Senator Henrik Shipstead as running mate to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt was suggested today by Henry G. Teigan, secretary of the party's organization in Minnesota.

"Such a ticket would sweep Minnesota without a doubt," Teigan predicted, "and I believe it would also stand a good chance in other midwest states. Besides I have reason to believe that the democratic national leaders, presumably looking over the ground for a strong vice presidential candidate, would welcome the suggestion of Senator Shipstead's name."

Washington, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—Forces favoring nomination of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for president strengthened their command of the situation today on the eve of the democratic national committee meeting.

They succeeded by arranging for the selection of Robert Jackson, democratic national committeeman for New Hampshire, to be elected tomorrow as secretary of the democratic national committee to fill the unexpired term of the late Charles Greathouse of Indiana.

Meanwhile friends of Roosevelt continued their drive to prevent the national convention going to Chicago and Kansas City was definitely in the ascendency. William T. Kemper, Missouri national committeeman, who had a telegram pledge from Kansas City of $100,000 cash and a guarantee of an additional $50,000 to cover convention expenses, conferred today with James Farley, New York democratic chairman and unofficial director of the Roosevelt movement.

The first candidate to step out to the rail is Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland who announced his candidacy last night.

Speakers at the Jackson day dinner tonight include former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, John W. Davis of West Virginia and James M. Cox of Ohio, the three living democratic ex-candidates. Claude Bowers, keynoter at the 1928 Houston convention, will be toastmaster.

Smith's plans are buried in a sphinx-like silence. His speech tonight will be watched for some answer to the riddle.

A nation-wide poll of newspaper editors by the Magazine Publishers' service, indicated the next president, in the belief of 305 editors, will be a democrat—probably Roosevelt or Newton D. Baker of Ohio. Out of 591 editors responding, 161 favored Roosevelt and 134 Baker. And 209 supported a republican candidate.

STATE MAN WANTED IN KIDNAPING SHOT IN ATTEMPTED RAID

TOLEDO DRUGGIST FATALITY WOUNDS MAN IDENTIFIED AS LAUD L. O'NEIL

Toledo, O., Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—A bandit, whose short-torn body was found in a drainage ditch near Oak Harbor, Ohio, where it apparently had been abandoned by his pals, was identified today as Laud L. O'Neil of St. Paul, Minn., wanted there on a kidnapping charge.

The victim was shot by Frank Ohler, Toledo druggist, in an attempted holdup. Police believe confederates dumped his body from a car after the wounds had resulted fatally.

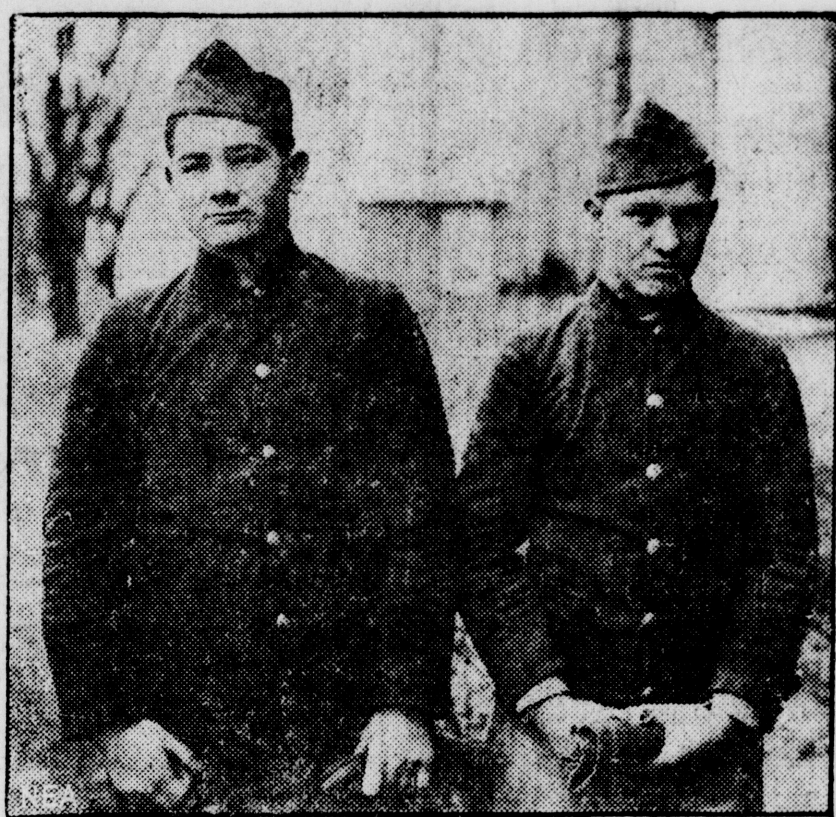

Identification of the victim was established through finger prints furnished by St. Paul authorities who said he had been sought in connection with the abduction of Morris Rutman last October 5.

O'Neil's criminal record started in 1916 when he was sentenced to five years in Minnesota state prison for forgery. Later he was sentenced to seven years for highway robbery. He was paroled from the latter conviction last May 7.

St. Paul, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—Laud "Tip" O'Neil was under indictment in St. Paul for participation in the kidnapping and torture of Morris Rutman, alleged bootlegger.

Jack Ferrick, owner of the Silver Slipper inn and alleged leader of the kidnapping gang, was being sought while James Eugene Lynch, former Stillwater guard, and Cameron Berg, St. Paul, were convicted on charges of kidnapping.

Boys "Confess" Burning Eight

Here are the two youths who Gallipolis, O., authorities say have confessed to the burning of the log cabin of James White, 40, near Gallipolis last spring, resulting in the death of White and seven of his eight children. The boys, Albert Heymer, left, and Ellsworth Mowyer, are inmates of the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, O. Officers refused to place full belief in the boys' story pending further investigation. Albert is 15 and Ellsworth 17.

TEST VOTE ASSURES PASSAGE OF TARIFF MEASURE IN HOUSE

OTHER BILLS, INCLUDING PRESIDENT'S RECONSTRUCTION MEASURE, DEFERRED

Washington, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—Passage by the house of the democratic tariff bill was indicated today on a test vote which showed 214 supporting the measure and 174 against it.

The test vote came on adoption of a rule for consideration to the bill. Usually this is a mere formality. Republicans, however, sought to kill the measure at the outset by defeating the rule for its consideration.

This first really political measure to come before the democratic-controlled house strikes directly at President Hoover and republican tariff policy, though without touching the rates of the present Hawley-Smoot act, about which democrats have complained.

The bill would deprive the chief executive of his power to raise or lower existing rates 50 per cent, upon recommendation of the U. S. tariff commission, which is permitted under the so-called "flexible" provisions. President Hoover staunchly defends, on every occasion, the efficacy of his procedure.

More embarrassing to the president is the request in the bill for him to call an international conference of a permanent character to revise tariff rates downward and eliminate "discriminatory and unfair trade practices."

While the house considers the tariff bill, upon which democrats depend for their record on this controversial issue, other bills are waiting in the background. Chief of these are the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation bill sponsored by President Hoover, and the billion-dollar tax increase program recommended by Secretary of Treasury Mellon.

The senate may pass the reconstruction bill today.

HONOR ALL DEPOSITS CLOSED AITKIN BANK

STOCKHOLDERS GIVE PROTECTION; FIRST NATIONAL, AITKIN ASSUMES ACCOUNTS

Depositors of the National Bank of Aitkin, closed a month ago, and taken over by The First National Bank of Aitkin will be paid in full, it was announced today at Aitkin. The First National Bank of Aitkin will honor all checks drawn on the National Bank, as well as credit the interest on time certificates of depositors of that institution.

Payment in full was made responsible through the placing of $80,000 by stockholders of the closed bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. DeLaitre, stockholders of the National Bank, contributed $50,000 to the fund. Directors Fred Blais of Shovel Lake, J. J. McDonald of Aitkin and John T. Galarneau and John E. Galarneau, president, also contributed to the fund.

LENZ AND LIGGETT PARE CULBERTSON LEAD TO 8,770

New York, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—Maybe you call it a late start, as the fellow said when he left at 5 o'clock to catch the 5 o'clock train, but Sidney Lenz and Commander Winfield Liggett bore down last night in the Culbertson-Lenz contract bridge scuffle and chopped 5,405 points off Ely Culbertson's lead.

Culbertson came up smiling but admitted he had taken a licking. His statement to the press, however, was succinct. "They held the cards," said Ely, "they just held the cards."

Culbertson started the evening with an importer, Howard Schenken, as partner. And he started 14-175 points ahead of Lenz and Liggett. Schenken just couldn't stand up under the kibitzers. After seven rubbers had been played, with only six more to be run off tonight to end the contest, Ely and Howard found themselves beaten down to a lead of 8,770 points.

WICKERSHAM BOARD FLAYS HANDLING OF MOONEY CASE

PROBE REDUCED TO HUNT FOR EVIDENCE TO CONVICT THOSE ARRESTED, DOCUMENT SAYS

Washington, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—A scathing indictment of California's handling of the Mooney-Billings case was submitted to the senate today in the form of a report prepared by experts of the Wickersham commission.

The commission refused to accept responsibility for the report which makes grave charges against the manner in which convictions were obtained of the two men on charges of participating in the bombings of a Preparedness day parade in San Francisco in 1916.

The conclusions of the Wickersham experts were as follows: "There never was any scientific attempt made by the police or the prosecution to discover the perpetrators of the crime."

"The police investigation was reduced to a hunt for evidence to convict the arrested defendants. "After the arrest of the defendants, witnesses were brought to the jails to 'identify' them and their 'identifications' were accepted by the police and the prosecution despite the fact that these witnesses were never required to pick the defendants out of a line-up or to demonstrate their accuracy by any other test."

"After the arrests of the defendants there followed a deliberate attempt to arouse public prejudice against them, by a series of almost daily interviews given to the press by prosecuting officials."

Submission to the senate of the report and eventual publication of the text of the bulky volume is believed by many persons to be the first major break in favor of those who are endeavoring to obtain a pardon for the two men.

STAPLES P. O. CLERK DRAWS PRISON TERM FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

FEDERAL COURT OPENS AT FERRIS FALLS WITH HEAVY DOCKET OF CASES

Court room and corridors were crowded today with defendants and witnesses who overflowed into the postoffice lobby as the winter term of federal court got underway with one of the heaviest calendars of its history.

Judges Cant and Nordbye will conduct the present term.

More than 150 liquor cases are docketed for the present term. Cornell Sullivan and Carl Simpson, both of St. Paul, employed as brakemen on the Soo Line railway, were sentenced to prison terms on charges of smuggling 27 quarts of liquor into the United States from Canada.

Sullivan was given a two year term in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., while Simpson was sentenced to a similar term at the Chillicothe, O., reformatory.

The heaviest sentence was imposed upon Harold O. Shelin, former clerk at the Staples postoffice, who pleaded guilty to embezzling $157 worth of postoffice funds. Shelin was given a three year prison term. A petition asking clemency was presented by representatives of Staples residents and Judge Cant said that Shelin would be eligible for parole in a year.

Raymond Caswell, Wheatland, N. D., was sentenced to two years in the federal reformatory on charges of robbing a mail box. John Troxli, Holdingford, was sentenced for two years in the federal reformatory when he pleaded guilty to robbing the Holdingford postoffice.

John L. Allis, St. Cloud, was fined $10 and given a 60 day jail term for sale of liquor. Allis had assisted federal officers in apprehending others.

HOLD WISCONSIN MURDER SUSPECT IN WESTERN STATE

BELIEVE MAN MAY BE ERDMAN OLSON WANTED FOR SLAY- ING OF WIFE

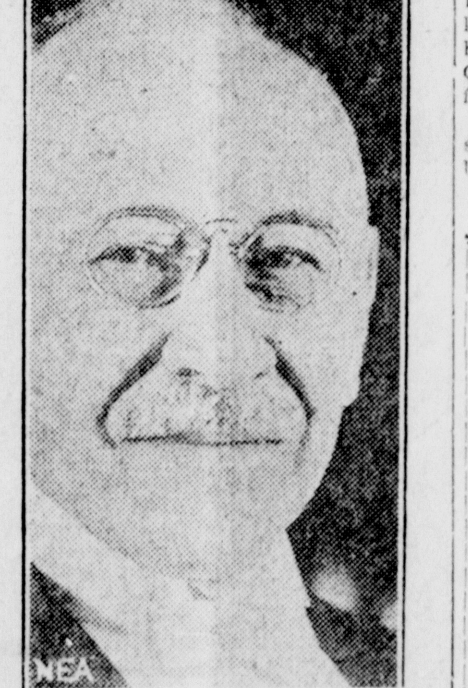

Los Angeles, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—Jerome Hegeman, 23, a laborer, was held by police today in connection with a murder in Crawford county, Wis. Hegeman, who was said to have been sought for three years, was charged with suspicion of murder.

His arrest followed a tip given by Edward Hess, general delivery clerk in the Los Angeles postoffice, who obtained his information from a Crawford county police circular.

Los Angeles police air-mailed a description of Hegeman to Sheriff A. M. Scoville of Crawford county. They said his description did not tally completely with that of Erdman Sanford Olson, wanted there on a charge of murdering his wife, Clara, Oct. 7, 1926.

Since the body of the girl was found in a shallow grave at Prairie du Chien, Wis., an exhaustive search has been made for Olson. Many suspects have been arrested but no definite clue to his whereabouts has ever been found.

TAKES SHORTCUT ON LAKE, FALLS THRU THIN ICE, DROWNS

CROSBY PEOPLE RECOVER BODY OF CARL EBERT, TRAPPER; BURIAL AT ST. PAUL

Carl Ebert, 37, was drowned in Lawrence lake, where he has lived for two years as a trapper and fisher.

Leaving the home of Pete Hanson, with whom he expected to go for a visit to a friend, he took a short cut across the lake although he had been warned that there was open water where a creek flows into the Lawrence and Levit lakes. Hanson heard his cries for help and saw him swinging his flashlight, but arrived at the spot too late to be of any assistance.

Neighbors summoned help from Crosby and dragged the lake but the body was not recovered until next day. It was found close to where he was last seen, in about eight feet of water. Ebert's body was taken to St. Paul, where he has several relatives.

FIND FLOOD VICTIMS CLINGING TO RAFTS, ROOF TOPS, IN SOUTH

APPEAL FOR U. S. ARMY TROOPS TO PATROL CRUMBLING LEEVE SECTOR

Sumner, Miss., Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—An appeal for U. S. army troops to patrol the crumbling levee sector in the flooded Tallahatchie river valley was sent to the war department today by citizens of Glendora.

Glendora is one of the hardest hit of the dozen towns in the inundated area.

Appeals for food, clothing and shelter have been broadcast for the 2,000 inhabitants of east Tallahatchie county, made homeless by a levee break Wednesday night. A wall of water 150 feet wide roared through the fissure, flooding 50,000 acres of farming land from 3 to 11 feet deep. The break occurred on the Sharkey plantation, eight miles from Glendora.

Hundreds of head of livestock were drowned and property damage was increased by many thousands of dollars by this latest break.

Water was six to ten feet deep around many negro cabins and residents were found clinging to roof-tops or splashing on rafts as aid arrived.

Four villages were abandoned completely today. The were: Tippecanoe, Vancie and Gaynes, all settlements of a few hundred persons. At Sumner, Glendora, and Webb, the larger towns in this area, water was from three to four feet deep. Only a few homes on higher ground were occupied.

PATIENT, FEARING ARREST, ESCAPES HOSPITAL, NABBED

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR NEAR DEERWOOD HELD ON NON SUPPORT CHARGE

Fearing arrest by Crosby authorities, Ted Winkler, owner of the car which was wrecked near Deerwood Sunday, killing Mrs. O. Skellern, left the Minn. hospital in Crosby on Tuesday morning while the nurses were at breakfast.

Although he had not recovered from injuries received in the wreck, Winkler made his way to a west Crosby home where he was later found by Crosby police and deputy sheriffs from St. Cloud.

He was allegedly charged with non-support of his wife and five children living at Holdingford, Minn.

DOCTOR OPERATES ON SELF FOR HERNIA

Kane, Pa., Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—Dr. Evan O'Neill Kane, 76-year-old surgeon, who astounded the medical world 11 years ago by removing his own appendix, was hailed today as the "man of steel" after a successful operation on himself for inguinal hernia—an operation so delicate that a slip of one-eighth of an inch might have meant death.

For an hour and 45 minutes he wielded the knife on his own body to cure an intestinal rupture suffered six years ago while horse-back riding. Had the operation been performed by another surgeon on Dr. Kane it would have required great skill and a steady hand. But the aged surgeon was possessed of both these attributes and nerves of steel as well. He joked with his nurses during the operation and when it was over he smilingly admitted he was slightly drowsy but in "fine condition."

TAKE THIRD YOUNG FOR QUESTIONING IN MISSOURI KILLINGS

PAUL YOUNG SURRENDERS TO POLICE AFTER BROTHERS KILL SIX OFFICERS

Houston, Texas, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—Paul Young, brother of Harry and Jennings Young, the Missouri slayers of six peace officers, surrendered to police here today.

He was wanted for questioning in the slaying of six officers in Springfield when they sought to arrest Harry and Jennings Young who killed them selves when cornered here Tuesday.

Paul Young at first was believed to have been with his brothers in the farm house at the time of the gun battle with the Missouri officers, but prosecutor Van Nee of Springfield later said he was convinced Harry and Jennings were the only ones in the place.

Police Chief Percy Heard wanted to question Paul Young concerning his actions prior to the mass slayings and about a "death note" J. F. Tomlinson, who reported the hideout of the brothers to the police, received Thursday. The note was signed "Paul Young."

Meanwhile the bodies of Harry and Jennings Young were enroute from Houston to Missouri.

LOSING CANDIDATE IN CROSBY MAYOR'S ELECTION CONTESTS

A complaint charging the election a fraud, the obstruction of ballots and the substitution of others was on file in district court here today in the action of Emil C. Nygard vs. Fred Krause, arising out of Krause's recent election as mayor of Crosby.

A total of 1,000 votes was cast in the Crosby village election.

The contest case was set as the next case on the brief adjourned term of court which opened today with a divorce action hearing.

Charge Fourth Man as Member Bank Raid Gang

Moorhead, Minn., Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—A warrant was sworn out today for Jake Schumacher, Moorhead, charging him with being the fourth man in the bandit gang which held up the Sabin State Bank of $25,000 more than a week ago. Schumacher is held by Fargo, N. D., police on charges of auto theft. Three other men were arraigned on first degree bank robbery charges in connection with the bank holdup and will be given hearings Jan. 11.

Schumacher is at liberty on $1,000 bond facing trial in Moorhead on second degree assault charges in connection with the alleged beating up with a gun of Patrick McCleary.

Tokio, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—The cabinet of Premier Inukai, meeting to consider American Secretary Stimson's note on the far eastern situation, submitted its resignation to Emperor Hirohito today. It was expected that the emperor would refuse to accept it.

The resignation was a direct result of an assassination attempt against the emperor. It is a Japanese tradition that the cabinet in office must resign when an effort is made to do Washington, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—The state department has received a flood of protests from American firms in Manchuria against interference with their business by the Japanese. This condition was an important factor in Secretary Stimson's decision to restate America's open door policy.

Stimson sent notes to Tokio and Peiping late yesterday reminding them of the rights of the United States and its citizens in China. He cited the Kellogg peace pact and some unidentified provisions of the nine-power pact to bolster these rights and China's right to sovereignty.

the emperor harm. They are responsible for his safety and an attempt at assassination implies dereliction.

Tonight the emperor's grand chamberlain called on Inukai. It was expected the resignation would be accepted but that Inukai would be commanded to form a new cabinet.

The attempt to assassinate Emperor Hirohito failed when an assailant said to be a Korean hurled a bomb at the emperor's carriage. The assailant was captured.

The attack occurred outside the Sakurada gate to the Chiyoda castle, directly in front of the huge new metropolitan police headquarters.

Police said the bomb exploded behind the second carriage of the royal

Washington, Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—The American consulate at Nanking has informed the state department that China does not intend to ask the League of Nations to invoke economic sanctions against Japan.

Reports that this would be done were current and an early dispatch from the consulate confirmed them. A second dispatch, however, said that China had decided not to make the request.

procession in which Minister of the Imperial Household Count Makino was riding. The carriage was scarred, but the carriage in which the emperor was riding was not damaged.

The emperor entered the imperial palace safely. The assailant gave his name as Rihocho. He said he was a laborer and was born at Seoul. His motive was not revealed.

The attack occurred as the emperor was returning to the imperial palace after reviewing troops at the Yoyogi parade grounds. American Ambassador W. Samerom Forbes and other foreign diplomats witnessed the military review but were not present when the bomb was thrown.

John Thomas Taylor, of the Legion legislative committee, was wired to start immediate action toward passage of legislation necessary for the project.

Scientifically Purer..

Something every smoker
wants to know!

• Absolutely pure... that's what you expect in the things you eat and drink... and in the cigarettes you smoke.

"Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink," a noted scientist writes. There's no way to make a purer cigarette.

Starting with tobaccos... the ripest, finest, purest leaf that grows is selected for Chesterfields. Mild to start with... Cross-Blending makes it milder still. Then it's wrapped in paper that is so pure it burns without any taste or odor.

The phrase "Scientifically Purer" is entirely justified. By our use of a highly scientific process which was worked out by Dr. Paul Gross, the Head Chemist of our Research Department, Chesterfield reaches a state of purity unmatched, to our knowledge, by any other cigarette.

In addition, scientists check every ingredient, every method. Even the factory air is washed, and changed every 4½ minutes. More purity!

Notice, too, the clean, white, attractive package... moisture-proof. Chesterfields come to you as good and as pure as they're made. Good... they've got to be good! Change to Chesterfields and see.

A WONDERFUL NEW RADIO PROGRAM!

Tonight... at 10:30... Chesterfield's Radio Program. Light a Chesterfield... lean back... and relax while Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and Alex Gray, soloist, charm away your cares. It's on the entire Columbia Network... broadcast from coast to coast... every night except Sunday. And the hour's 10:30 E. S. T.

Campfire Girls Plan Gilbert Lake Party

The Wazeyata Campfire group met Wednesday, Jan. 6, 1932 in the club rooms. Miss Marie Adair gave a talk on campfires symbolism, illustrating different symbols.

A council fire was decided upon and all honors and beads will be given at that time. A skating and tobogganing party was planned for next week. Gilbert lake was chosen for the party.

CLINKERS? not

FORD COAL

PRODUCT OF THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY

SOME kinds of coal make clinkers more easily than others because the ash melts at relatively low temperatures—melts and runs together to form the hard, flinty clinkers that clog your grate. A quality inherent in Ford Coal prevents clinkering. That inherent quality is the high fusion-point, or melting-point, of the ash.

When you fire Ford Coal properly, it burns cleanly and leaves a small amount of light ash.

And it gives good, substantial heat, because of the high percentage of fixed carbon. In every way Ford Coal is a "high-test" coal, coming from mines selected by the Ford Motor Company for the extra quality of the fuel.

It is clean coal, too—picked free of impurities under strict Ford supervision. Carefully screened and graded for size. Economical to buy; economical to burn. Order a load of Ford Coal today!

WALKING TO SCHOOL--

Several Missouri newspapers recently commented on the fact that two boys living near the town of Boonville walk six miles to school every day, and do all the chores at home in addition; and it's all rather interesting, not because the boys have to walk so far, but because the fact that they do is considered worthy of mention in the newspapers.

A generation ago there would have been no news in such a story. Walk six miles to school? There were thousands and thousands of youngsters in all parts of the United States who did it every day throughout the school year, and thought nothing of it. In many rural districts long hikes like that were the rule and not the exception.

Those, of course, were the days when the little red school-house was a more familiar institution than it is now. No one had heard of consolidated schools then, nor of busses picking up all the children, carrying them off to school and bringing them home again in the evening.

The typical country school was a one-room, one-teacher affair, drawing its pupils from a radius of six or eight miles around; and the children trudged back and forth, through deep snow in winter and through rain, dust, mud or wind in spring and autumn. And no one ever thought that those children were undergoing hardships; on the contrary, the children were considered extremely lucky to have education available at the price of a little extended footwork.

This isolated, one-room school hasn't vanished yet, of course; but it is in the process of vanishing, and the system that is replacing it is vastly better from all standpoints. Children's bodies are not taxed now as they used to be. Their minds are given better training once the school room is reached. Life is easier, pleasanter, more carefully planned.

Meanwhile, those two Missouri boys who have to walk so far each day might be comforted, if they were aware of it, by the fact that they are carrying on a brave old tradition. What they are doing now, most farm boys had to do a few decades ago.

BOOM FOLLOWS BOOM--

When one kind of boom explodes, it occasionally clears the way for another kind of boom to begin.

Evidence of this odd fact is found in conditions in the Mexican districts about Vera Cruz and Tamulipas, where an oil boom recently came to an end. The result is a boom in agricultural land.

When the oil boom was on nobody was interested in buying land for farming. Excellent soil, fertile and well-drained, went begging, and five pesos an acre was considered a high price. Nobody wanted land unless oil could be got out of it.

Now, however, this agricultural land is coming into its own. Thousands of former oil workers have taken to farming, land prices have gone up, and the death of the boom has proved an excellent thing for the average citizen. A boom—as we north of the Rio Grande know full well, by now—can be more a curse than a blessing.

FEWER FARMS, MORE SUBJECTS--

The annual report of Robert B. Stuart, U. S. forester in the Pacific northwest, contains an idea that is well worth consideration in a land where agriculture has been ailing for so long. For it is Mr. Stuart's idea that the nation needs fewer farms and more forests, and he says:

"More land has been brought under cultivation than can be farmed, if the farming is well done, without creating burdensome agricultural surpluses. Public policies now taking shape to reclothe with forests lands on which agriculture no longer can be practiced successfully, and cut-over lands formerly thought to be destined for agricultural use."

In view of the plight of the farmer and the steady dwindling of our timber supply, here is a proposal that deserves a great deal of thought.

A CLOWN'S SACRIFICE--

Harry Robettas, aerial clown, made one of the supreme gifts of the holiday season. Because he did, his act is over. The orchestra no longer needs his cue.

Robettas made an engagement to perform at a holiday party at the Sawtelle Soldiers' Home in Los Angeles. When the time came the clown was ill, confined to his bed. His friends told him that he couldn't appear in his act. He told them that he would try it, anyway.

The old veterans had gathered for their party. They were going to be amused. Sitting around, day after day, remembering battles that nobody wants to hear about now, grows tiresome. They leaned forward, a little more breathless, when Robettas started his act.

They envied him. The clown was dangling by his teeth on a wire above the stage. "Some feat," the men said, as they applauded.

Robettas, meantime, as he swayed in his comic role, was biting the wire a little more heavily than usual. Severe internal pains were shaking his body. But he wouldn't give up. He was determined not to end his act ahead of time.

But when the act was done, and the applause had died away, he discovered that he was paralyzed. The strain had been too much. He can't perform again.

Many people will say that it was a useless sacrifice. Perhaps it was. But it was a glorious one, just the same. Robettas had a chance to be brave and he took it.

The memory of the back-stage scenes when he played the road on circuit, the lure of the Big Top, a blue sky scattered with stars, and the thrill that comes when the orchestra swings into a melody that means the performance is starting... all of these will be a little lovelier to the man who knows that his last act was his best.

A national business magazine remarked the other day that "it is a tragic commentary on our government that business should have a sigh of relief when Congress adjourns and immediately feel itself on tenderhooks as to what will happen when our national legislators convene."

Offhand, one might reply that it is also a tragic commentary on business if that is really the way its pulse responds to the doings in Washington. Because, when you examine things, such a reaction is completely unjustified.

Congress adjourned last spring and gave business a clear road ahead. What happened? Where is the revival that was sure to start? Did business find its way out of the depression, once Congress left it alone? Could it, in fact, have floundered much more pitifully if a meddling Congress had been on the job every minute of the year?

THREE KINDS OF LOVE

BY KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

© 1931, by Doubleday, Doran and Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ANN, CECILY AND MARY FRANCES PENWICK live with their grandparents, once wealthy, now so impoverished that Ann and Cecily's earnings support the household. The sisters have been orphaned since childhood. The grandparents are known respectively as "ROSALIE" and "GRAND."

When the story opens Ann has been engaged to PHIL ECHOYD, a young lawyer, for eight years. They cannot marry because Ann knows her sisters and grandparents depend on her to manage their home. Cecily has a new admirer, BARRY MCKEEL, with whom she is falling in love though she has known him only a short time. Mary Frances and her friend, ERMINTRUDE HILL, strike up an acquaintance with EARL DE ALMOUNT, stock company actor. To Mary Frances he is an intensely romantic figure. She meets him secretly.

Next morning Phil comes to take Ann to her office in his car. He begs her to marry him immediately. When she points out the obstacles they come near quarreling. Cecily is warned by her friend, BARRY MCKEEL, that she is falling in love though she has known him only a short time. Mary Frances and her friend, ERMINTRUDE HILL, strike up an acquaintance with EARL DE ALMOUNT, stock company actor. To Mary Frances he is an intensely romantic figure. She meets him secretly.

NO GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXI

"YOU mean," Cecily asked tremulously, "that you wouldn't?"

"I mean, I suppose, that I couldn't. Eight weeks—of course. Eight months—probably, but protestingly. Eight years—no real man could or would."

"Phil is a real man."

"Yes?" Barry made it an impudence.

"But he is," she insisted, struggling against an astonishing new loyalty which, unwelcome, she felt must be insincere. "He truly is. He is so good, and so trustworthy, and patient, and—"

"Lazy?" he supplied.

"He isn't lazy," she contested, and hated Phil with all her might. Why did he insist upon intruding? What difference did it make whether he was a real man, or lazy, or not lazy? Why should he be here at all, with his inevitable rightness, smoothing his vain mustache, a menacing third under these trees and stars? Phil did not like her. Why should she defend him? Why didn't Barry dispose of him instead of saying in that insistent voice, as if it were important, "Not mentally lazy?" Why didn't Barry chuck the whole business and kiss her again?

He did kiss her again. But, after that, he said disturbingly, "Cecily, is something wrong?"

"No," she declared, and repeated, "No," and added, "Nothing at all," because something was wrong, and she knew it, and Barry knew it.

"Forgive me," he said. "It was insufferably rude of me to criticize your friend and your sister's fiancé. Inexcusable—of course. I am sorry. I suppose I thought, or felt rather, that you and I were so—alone, so close, that other people were inconsequential. Even so, that was no reason for rudeness, was it?"

"You weren't rude," she said. "We were so close that other people were inconsequential—weren't, didn't exist back there before we got into the car. That is why I didn't wish to begin with plans and futures that dragged other people in with us. I wanted to stay right in the present, and close and alone with you. I asked you to. I didn't wish to talk about marrying, and being engaged, and the family, and Ann and Phil." There he loomed again, standing in his overshoes and displaying all his sterling qualities. She thrust her hands out in an impatient gesture, trying to push Phil away, and said, "Oh—" softly, under her breath.

NO WORDS, HE HAD SAID. Her, the loveliest living thing of practicality and guest towels and greed. He had gone off talking about savings and doctors' bills and the cost of living to her—to Cecily! He, along with all nature, halted, stupefied, spell-bound, stunned before such a crude display of injustice and animosity. There was little to be done about it now. He might sink out of the car and steal to the cliff and suicide politely. And yet—she did toss back her head and wrinkle her nose and squint her eyes like a small boy when she laughed. Hope lay there, if not promise.

"Darling—darling! I do understand, at last. It's no good beginning on what a fool I've been. We couldn't get through it this evening, and you know all about it, anyway. But, Cecily, it comes to this. I love you more than I know how to love. You'll help me. And now let's go straight back to your present, and our aloneness and your rightness."

They had come swiftly. The path was lost. They searched for it, for a time, and then decided sensibly to go home. Grand and Rosalie always fussed if she and Ann got home much later than eleven o'clock. No, they didn't know; they slept like tops. But, usually, it was easier to get in earlier than it was to fib about it in the morning. Yes, they always asked about the time. Too, this was Cecily's week to get breakfasts, since it was Ann's week to get dinners. Yes, they always took turn about—it was easier. Next week would be her week for the evening work, and then she'd have to go straight home from the office.

Speaking of the office, he had looked up the R. W. Correy Insurance Company in the telephone book that morning and had almost telephoned to her there. Would it be all right to telephone sometimes during the day?

No. She was sorry, but it wouldn't. Mr. Correy was a crank about the girls using the telephone. She always went downstairs to telephone to Ann at noon. Yes, she always telephoned to Ann at noon. Just a habit, she supposed. Mr. Correy was a crank about many things. Two other girls worked in the office: Miss Bush and Miss Grugers. No, she didn't like them very well. She didn't dislike them, but they were the "all-righty" sort. Mr. Correy was always snooping around their desks to see whether they had broken his rule by leaving their lipsticks and powder compacts in the office. No, he never snooped around her desk, but she had never broken the rule.

Barry said, "You'll be out of all that before long now."

"I don't mind it," Cecily said. "He's just fussy and important—not mean. He's good about money. I've had to ask for advances once or twice, and he's grand about it. He isn't stingy with raises, either. He always gives them for Christmas presents. I'm hoping for five, or maybe ten next Christmas."

"Christmas!" Barry scoffed, and counted from April to December on his fingers.

AS Cecily came into the upper hall Ann, wearing a red outfit—dannel kimono over her white nightgown, emerged from the bathroom. For the first time in her life envy touched Cecily's admiration of Ann's perfect beauty.

"Angel," she said, "with your hair down like that, you are the most beautiful thing in the world."

"I washed my hair," said Ann, as if that both explained and discredited Cecily's extravagance, "and took a bath. Mary-Frances and I cleaned the front hall tonight."

"Didn't Phil come?"

"He came to the office and brought me home in the car, but he couldn't stay. I didn't care—much, I mean. I was so glad to get at the hall while Grand and Rosalie were gone. They went to the Carmichaels—to be sympathized with, I suspect."

"The girls had gone into Cecily's room. 'What now?' she asked, as she pulled her dress off over her head.

"Gadding granddaughters, I think."

"Ann, I'm sorry. Did you have to put up with that again this evening?"

"I didn't mind. They gave up the party—punishment, I imagine. But I'll warn you, you'd better have Barry lie low for a while. 'A granddaughter of mine who, when she is not betrothed to a man—Cecily I do not blame. No. She is young. She is inexperienced. But a man knows these things. A man should guard a woman against herself, if necessary. A man—'"

"Ann! Pity's sake! As bad as that? You don't think Grand would be rude to Barry, do you?"

"No, of course not. I just think Grand will wave and wait up the minute he sees him and ask his intentions and are they honorable. He is in a perfect pet about the honorableness of Barry's intentions. I never saw him act this way before, did you? Besides, he's gone sort of mysterious—something—I don't know what is the matter with him."

"Don't you? I do. He's jealous. He's always been jealous of Phil, and now he's starting in on Barry. But as for Barry's intentions—Cecily seemed to be absorbed in fitting the shoe trees into her best brown shoes—"well, Ann, they're honorable as anything."

ANN said, "Cecily, are you engaged?" The trouble was that she said it as she might have said, "Cecily, have you drowned the blind man's dog in the drinking water?"

Cecily shook her head. "Nope."

She tried to be hard about it. "Not I. Not us."

Ann sat down on the bed and sighed unrestrainedly. "You haven't known him nearly long enough," she tried to explain.

"Says you?" Cecily gave it up; she couldn't be swaggerish with Ann tonight. "But—but, angel, he loves me. He told me so this evening."

"Well," said Ann. "Well what?" Cecily peeked into the mirror at herself in her pink pajamas and, smiling, came to sit on the bed beside Ann.

"Do you love him, really?" Ann asked. "I got up and went to take Cecily's bathrobe from the closet door. 'Here, put this on.'"

Obediently Cecily covered the pretty pink things with the dingy old robe and said, "Thank you," and said, "I thought you knew," in answer to Ann's question.

Ann asked, as if it were important, "But does he know that you love him?"

"He does if he believes me. I told him so, almost the instant he told me. I fairly took the words out of his mouth."

Ann did not smile. "But—but didn't he ask you to marry him, then, Cissy?"

Cecily tossed back her head and laughed. "Angel! You're so sweet and so funny, and you don't know it. Yes, dear, he asked your sister, and made an honest woman of her and everything."

"Well, Cissy—I must say!"

"No, Ann, he was just right and adorable. But I didn't want to be engaged for a while. So I haven't breathed the answer soft and low as yet."

"Cecily," Ann declared, and emphasized her words with emphatic nods of her head, "you are so wise. You are so wise. I had no idea that you were—so wise."

VALLEY CITY WILL PROVIDE STRONGEST COMPETITION HERE

Brainerd's high school Warriors face their stiffest competition of the season here Saturday night in playing the Valley City high school of North Dakota.

The visitors take their basketball with all seriousness as anyone who knows basketball in North Dakota will explain.

Valley City trimmed competition right and left last year and forged through their district, regional, and went to the finals of the state tournament, losing by a close margin.

This year the strength of the squad is in the traces again, playing faster basketball than ever. Brainerd gained a game because Valley City officials have watched this team and feel sure that the competition will build the team for the best competition any North Dakota team can provide.

The Brainerd boys cannot lag. If they slump only momentarily they will find a team ready to take advantage of it.

Valley City plays according to the 21 year age limit, a one year advantage over Minnesota teams.

The game will find a larger attendance of fans present than at the Moorhead clash.

Brainerd will play at Aitkin tonight. Coaches Bill Dammann and Ben Taylor are hoping for an early lead and the shifting of the heavy duty on the reserve strength.

The Warriors potentially are stronger than last year because of the valuable reserve material.

Dammann demands that the team

What's New in the New Chevrolet Six

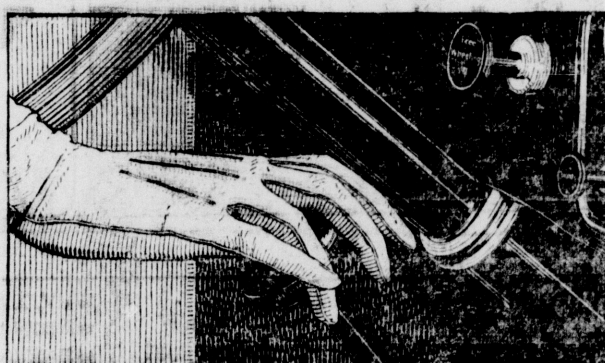

When you read what's new in the new Chevrolet Six, you, too, will agree it's the Great American Value for 1932.

It is the only low-priced car to offer both Syncro-Mesh and Free Wheeling in combination. It has engine and chassis improvements that raise performance to new heights of power, speed and smoothness. It provides the finest Fisher bodies Chevrolet has ever introduced. And it maintains the same factors of dependability and economy that have won the approval of millions of Chevrolet owners.

All that has proved to be sound and dependable in the past, plus all the new advancements given below—at one of the lowest prices in the market! That's why the new Chevrolet Six is the Great American Value for 1932!

Silent Syncro-Mesh Transmission

This well-known feature of high-priced cars is the finest type of transmission ever developed. In the new Chevrolet Six, it brings a new type of handling ease and car control to the low-price field. Syncro-Mesh permits you to shift gears with marvelous quickness, quietness and ease. As a safety factor, it is especially valuable. For it enables you to shift rapidly from high back into second, any time you want to use the engine as a brake.

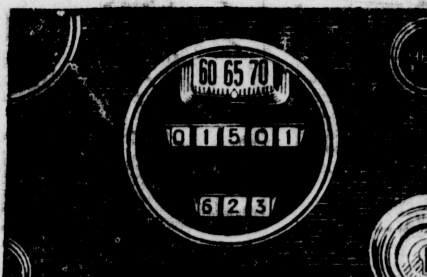

A Smoother, Improved Six-Cylinder Engine

New experiences await you in the Chevrolet Six—new thrills in power, pick-up, smoothness and speed. For Chevrolet has introduced many new engine features that increase power 20 per cent to 60 horsepower, and makes Chevrolet's built-in six-cylinder smoothness even smoother. These features include down-draft carburetion, a new cylinder head, new manifolding, a counter-balanced crankshaft and rubber engine mountings.

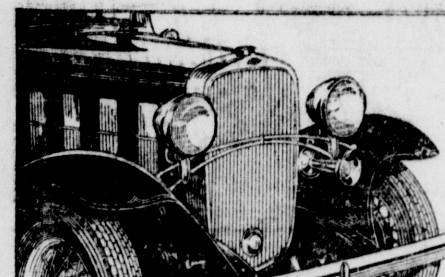

Simplified Free Wheeling

Chevrolet's Free Wheeling mechanism is a new and advanced type that is extremely simple in construction. You may take advantage of its thrills whenever you want to, by simply pressing a button on the dash. Thereafter, and until you pull the button out again you are "in" Free Wheeling. You coast along on momentum every time your foot is off the accelerator. And you can shift with magical simplicity and ease.

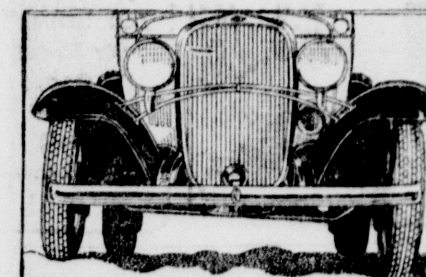

65 to 70 Miles an Hour with Faster Acceleration

Vital new features introduced into Chevrolet's six-cylinder engine enable it to develop 65 to 70 miles an hour with astonishing ease, stability and smoothness. And stop-watch tests show an acceleration from 0 to 35 miles in 6.7 seconds.

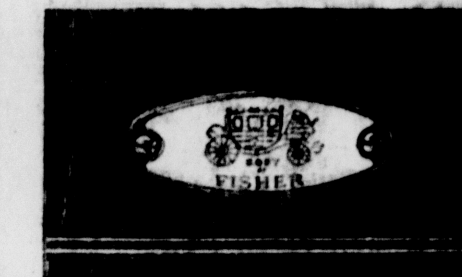

Distinctive New Front-End Appearance

The new chromium-plated elliptical radiator, built-in radiator grille, double tie-bar, trumpet-type horn, and bullet-type headlamps form a front-end ensemble of arresting beauty, enhanced by new rectangular, adjustable hood-ports.

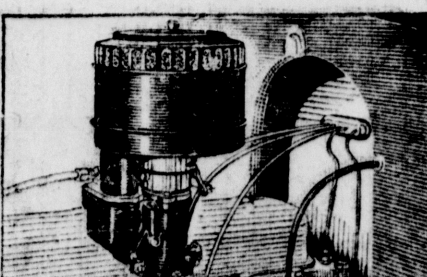

Stabilized Front-End Mounting

An ingenious method of mounting front fenders, lamps, double tie-bar and radiator securely to the frame—a method exclusive to Chevrolet—stabilizes the whole front-end assembly and insures steadiness when driving over rough roads.

Smart New Fisher Bodies

Chevrolet's new Fisher bodies are the smartest bodies ever to appear in the low-price field. Moreover, Fisher craftsmen have added many new elements of strength, quietness and solidity to the wood-and-steel construction. Greater vision is provided for all occupants.

Down-Draft Carburetion

The down-draft carburetor is a big factor in Chevrolet's greater power, speed and pick-up. An intake silencer combined with it assures greater quietness. A heat control device, operated from the dash, warms up the engine quickly and provides more efficient operation in cold weather.

Finger-Touch Front Seat

One of the most interesting conveniences in the new Fisher bodies is the new type of adjustable front seat. A touch of the finger on a lever at the left of the cushions, and you can move the seat to any desired position. This feature is exclusive to Chevrolet in the lowest-price field.

And the following Chevrolet features that have won the approval of millions of owners: Big, powerful Four-Wheel Brakes . . . Four Hydraulic Shock Absorbers . . . Four long Semi-Elliptic Springs . . . Full Length Frame . . . Insulated Driver's Compartment

28 YRS. SEPARATED, FALLS COUPLE AND DAUGHTER REUNITED

An aged Little Falls couple was reunited today with a daughter after a separation of 28 years during which parents and daughter had lost track of each other although living in adjacent counties.

The reunion took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Salzbrenn, Little Falls, where the daughter, Mrs. Minnie Cota, of Brownville introduced her husband and her four children to their grandparents for the first time.

Minnie Salzbrenn left home 28 years ago when the family lived east of Royalton, the girl going to Willmar. The Salzbrenns moved several times before going to Little Falls and parents and daughter lost trace of each other.

Recently Minnie determined to find her parents and drove to Little Falls to start her search. The first person she inquired of was her own brother.

TEMPERANCE UNITS HERE TO OBSERVE ENROLLMENT WEEK

DRYS OF STATE TO INAUGURATE MOVE TO SIGN PROHIBITION FRIENDS

The week of January 10 to 17 inclusive will be observed by Brainerd temperance societies and churches throughout the state as Loyalty Enrollment Week, in celebration of the twelfth anniversary of national prohibition.

The Minnesota Allied Drys, a new group composed of representatives of all organizations interested in prohibition, is sponsor for the enrollment week. It acts as a clearing house and board of strategy, through which useless duplication of effort by the various groups may be avoided, and greater coordination and concentration of effort may be achieved.

At its council table sit the state and district superintendents of most of the evangelical churches, with representatives of the temperance organizations of the Catholic and Christian Science churches, leaders and officers of the Anti-saloon League, the W. C. T. U., the Good Templars, and similar groups.

The local organization in this city and vicinity are asking not only their members but all persons favorable to prohibition, to sign. The enrollments, when signed, will be gathered by the local branch and returned to Mrs. Oec Curtis, Oak Grove hotel, Minneapolis, who is the chairman of the Minnesota Allied Drys Enrollment committee, where they will be assembled by counties, post offices, and other divisions, and copies, at cost of copying, will be available for any member group.

Chevrolet Occupies Honor Place at Show

When the doors open Saturday to the National Automobile Show in Grand Central Palace, New York, Chevrolet will occupy the position of honor on the show floor for the fifth consecutive year.

Each year the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce awards first place at the national shows to the member company which has done the largest dollar volume of business in the previous 12 months.

The award is much coveted in the industry, because in addition to the distinction it conveys it also carries with it the right to first choice of exhibition space at the national shows in New York.
